

Clear investment. Pure energy.

ENVIRONMENTAL AWARD 2010

Award-winning team: Marc Burton, Camerons MD, and Ogier CEO Nick Kershaw hold the trophy alongside Jersey Electricity CEO Chris Ambler (left) and Minister for the Environment Freddie Cohen (right)

STANDARD BEARERS

Ogier and Camerons Ltd are winners of the 2010 Jersey Electricity Environmental Award for the landmark building Ogier House which has raised the bar in environmentally conscious construction in Jersey.

Jersey Electricity CEO Chris Ambler said: 'At a time when energy efficiency, conservation of resources and sustainability are paramount, Ogier and Camerons have set a new benchmark way beyond what has gone before and which, hopefully, others will follow.'

Fourteen organisations entered this second Jersey Electricity-sponsored Environmental Award which is divided into three categories: Large Organisations, Small Organisations and Community Activity.

Joining the eventual winners on the short list of three were La Mare Wine Estate and the Community Service Scheme, run by the Probation and After Care Service, for their outstanding and long-term work maintaining and preserving Jersey's countryside.

Given a challenging task were judges Chris Ambler, Conservationist Mike Stentiford MBE, and Jim Hopley, former Chief Executive of last year's winners, the Channel Islands Co-operative Society.

"Ogier and Camerons have set a new benchmark"